TO BE FINISHED FOR CHRISTMAS

Cyclorama Structure to be Completed in December. Work on Federal Building up to Government Contract Requirement.

Barring extremely cold weather it is expected that the large building to house the cyclorama will be completed before Christmas. Work at excavation has been under way for several weeks and satisfactory progress has been made. The work of building the concrete pillars for the steel will be done in a few days and several carloads of the steel are expected during the week.

With proper protection it is believed that the concrete work may be done with safety and the placing of the steel may be accomplished in almost any kind of weather. The hollow tile work will follow immediately upon the structural steel operations and the remainder of the work should not take long. The contractors say that forty working days will be all that will be required after actual construction is commenced.

The near approach of cold weather has made activity more marked at all the building operations in the town. The federal building has been going ahead with very satisfactory progress for several weeks and on Friday the contractors were ahead of the point in construction required by the government for November 1. Local post office people still have hopes that the building will be ready for occupancy before the fiftieth anniversary celebration next year.

The block of ten houses being erected in the northeast section of town has gone up rapidly and will be under roof before long. They make quite an imposing addition to the buildings in that part of the borough and augur well for the erection of more substantial structures there. They will be ready for occupancy in the spring. All the dwelling houses under construction in Gettysburg are being hurried along in anticipation of low temperatures and, during the winter, work will be provided on the interior making more residences ready for use with the opening of warmer weather in the early part of 1913.

AFTER 40 YEARS

George Sheely, Express Agent at New Oxford, Tenders Resignation.

George C. Sheely who has been the agent for the Adams and American express companies in New Oxford for the past forty years, tendered his resignation to the latter company to take effect last Saturday.

When Mr. Sheely first assumed the duties of agent for the Adams, having succeeded his father, the late A. Sheely, he received the munificent salary of $100 per annum. Later the Adams placed their agents on commission basis and Mr. Sheely by his courteous treatment and strict attention to business, built up a business which, while not by any means sufficient for him to earn a livelihood from it, nevertheless it was enough to make it worth the efforts of one's labors.

The primary cause of Mr. Sheely's retirement from the express service is due to his climbing up in years and the additional labors of his other growing business.

PICKERTS HERE

Stock Company Returns for Week's Engagement of Good Plays.

The Four Pickerts Stock Company arrived in Gettysburg this morning for a week's engagement. They will produce seven plays, starting this evening with "The Pride of Virginia". The Pickerts introduce a number of specialties between the acts and their shows are recognized as among the best in stock company work. They were here within the past two years and played to packed houses almost every night. The chart is at the People's Drug Store.—Advertisement.

GOOD THINGS FOR PASTOR

United Brethren Congregation Donates Many Good Things to their New Pastor. Rally Day Services Largely Attended.

The United Brethren church on High street was the scene Sunday of several rally day services which filled the building and at which the new pastor, the Rev. J. Charles Gardner, was the recipient of a large amount of fruit, produce and other good things from the people whom he has so lately come here to serve. The collections during the day amounted to $61.00.

The services of the day were opened at the Sunday School session in the morning which was largely attended and at which each class responded with a song, recitation or instrumental music. Other features of the session were bell ringing by Prof. D. Ames who also gave a solo on a Boehm flute more than a century old.

In the evening the church was filled to capacity. In addition to congregational singing and the bell ringing by Prof. Ames, there were songs and recitations by a number of the young people of the church and Sunday School. Addresses were made by Rev. J. Charles Gardner and Rev. J. R. Hutchison. Rev. Mr. Hutchison made the presentation speech for members and the pastor replied in a very happy way.

The evening's service closed with "The Holy City" sung by Mrs. Edward Treadle and acted in pantomime by four little girls. Hannah Minnigh, Ruth Gilbert, Edna Heagy and Catherine Deardorff.

The day made a very auspicious opening for the pastorate for Rev. Mr. Gardner.

LOST BY BIG SCORE

Gettysburg Team Put to Rout by Muhlenburg. Scrubs Won.

Gettysburg's foot ball team was put to rout at Allentown on Saturday by little Muhlenburg which succeeded in rolling up a score of 38 to 7, a result which was not anticipated by the most gloomy supporter and one which caused dismay and keen disappointment in the local camp. On the kickoff Gettysburg fumbled and Muhlenburg got the ball on Gettysburg's fifteen yard line. That started the trouble and the game was at times almost a stampede. Muhlenburg scored one touchdown in the first period, two in the second and two in the fourth. The complete disorganization of the Gettysburg team may be understood when it is known that the last two touchdowns were made in 60 and 80 yard runs while in the last half Gettysburg failed to score though they had the ball six inches from the goal line. Gettysburg's touchdown came in the second period. Vreeland for Muhlenburg kicked a goal from the field.

The Scrubs lost to Conway Hall at Carlisle 28 to 6. Gettysburg's score being made in the final period when Fackel intercepted a forward pass and ran for a touchdown. The preps won at Hanover 6 to 0.

The High School team showed their prowess at the gridiron game by defeating McSherrytown 51 to 0. The local boys seemed to have the lower end players at their mercy and scored almost at will.

STRONG SHOW

Servant in the House Coming to Wizard Theatre Next Week.

"The Servant in the House," which will be seen at the Wizard Theatre on Tuesday, November 12, was called by Harpers Magazine "The most remarkable play in the English language" and the New York Sun said it was "the greatest drama of the generation," and the Chicago Daily News declared it to be "the most beautiful play of all ages." Merle H. Norton, the producer, is sending this wonderful play here with what is said to be the greatest cast of players ever seen with a play of this character. Prominent in the cast is Victor E. Lambert, an actor who has endeared himself to play-goers throughout the entire country by his excellent work of the last few years. Advertisement.

COUNTY CROPS RECORD BREAKERS

Adams County Farmers Delighted with Yield of the Past Season. Every Crop Successful and Barns are Full.

Now that the farmers are housing the last of their 1912 crops, the opinion is general throughout Adams county that all crops have not yielded so bounteously during many years as this season.

Not for a long time has the yield of wheat, oats, rye and corn been so large as this year. The 1912 hay crop will go down into history as the greatest within the recollection of the "oldest inhabitants," while the corn crop, now being housed, is so large that many farmers are puzzled just where they are going to store the surplus when their cribs are filled. And when it comes to potatoes the yield in all sections of Adams county far surpasses that of any other year for many years past. Reports of from 150 to 200 bushels an acre are common this season.

The wheat crop in Adams county was also enormous this year. The grain was not affected by rust or the fly, while the straw was extra length and quality. The average yield is reported to be 20 to 30 bushels to the acre.

In many sections of the county the average yield of oats was 40 to 75 bushels an acre, while rye produced from 60 to 90 bushels. Corn never yielded a bigger crop than now being housed. Reports say the yield is from 75 to 200 bushels to the acre.

Not for many years past have the farmers of this section harvested as much clover seed as this fall. Clover was better this summer than for a score of years and farmers took advantage of the fine stand in their fields to let it go to seed after the first crop of hay was cut.

HIGH PRAISE

The following is from a Lancaster paper:

A portrait, remarkable in many ways, has been painted of Rev. John E. Whitaker, D. D., of Trinity Lutheran Church, by Lytton Briggs Buehler. It represents the subject as scholarly clergyman seated in his robes in his study, where the portrait was painted. The scale of the picture is life size and half length. The likeness is close to life, and the composition of the picture has been well handled. In technical execution critics have pronounced this picture masterly. Mr. Buehler, the artist, studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia, where he won the Cresson traveling scholarship, and enjoyed study in Paris and other art centres in Europe. Work of his was exhibited at the Salon in Paris. His portrait of Major Richardson, trustee of the National Cemetery, Gettysburg, was exhibited at the National Academy, New York, and "invited" to the annual exhibition of artists at Philadelphia. The portrait of Dr. Whitaker, which was only recently completed, will be one of the attractive and interesting exhibits at the coming portraiture exhibition.

MANY HUNTERS ARE INJURED

Two Hunters Shot in the Face. Two Others Peppered with Shot by their Brother. Injuries Painful though not Serious.

George, the eighteen-year-old son of F. E. Eichelberger, of Jacobs' Mill, was accidentally shot by a comrade, Samuel Hoover, while gunning in Leinert's woods, near Porters. Hoover shot at a rabbit, not seeing Eichelberger who was behind some bushes. A shot punctured his left cheek and others lodged in his neck and pierced his left ear. His coat was filled with shot that failed to penetrate to his body. He was taken to the office of Dr. L. H. Sterner, Porters, where his injuries were treated.

Moses Messersmith was shot in the face and head while gunning with his brothers, Clarence and Milton, in the Pigeon Hills. The shots were fired by a person unknown, and coming from a distance. The injuries sustained are not severe. Dr. T. C. Miller, of Abbottstown, dressed the injuries.

Horatio and William Smith were accidentally shot by their brother, Daniel, while gunning on the farm of Wesley Rohrbach near Sinheim, Horatio, who is nineteen years old, and William, who is seventeen, were standing back of a tree, when seeing a rabbit going through the underbrush, Daniel, aged twenty, fired. William received a portion of the discharge in the breast, abdomen and left hand, his injuries being severe. Thirty or forty shot lodged in his body. Horatio was shot in the shoulders and other parts of the body. The young men were driven by Wilson Hamme to the office of Dr. J. R. Brodbeck, at Jefferson, where their injuries were treated.

TURKEY SOES FOR PEACE

Asks Powers to Intervene to End War.

FEAR OF MASSACRE GROWS

Foreign and Native Christians in Constantinople in Peril—City in State of Siege.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—The Porte has applied to the powers for mediation with a view to the cessation of hostilities and for the negotiation of peace.

Application has been made to the embassies in Constantinople and by circular to the Ottoman representatives in the European capitals.

Constantinople is in a fever of excitement over the alarming reports from the field of battle. Foreigners and natives alike are suffering from the tension caused by the series of military disasters, and, although the city is in a state of siege, crime in some quarters is unchecked. Many families are leaving the city.

The people fear, first, an outbreak of Moslem fanaticism by the turbulent elements, the lower classes, and, second, a rising of the hordes of madmen soldiers, who are being driven by the Bulgarians to make their last stand a few miles outside of Constantinople and then, perhaps, to fall back on the capital.

The battle still continues on the plains of Thrace, and, if the Turkish soldiers fall back within the gates of the city it is feared they may turn their guns and bayonets on those who are awaiting in trembling the outcome of the conflict.

There is a large and unruly element of the population which would be glad of any pretext for massacre and pillage. The presence of more than 10,000 Moslem refugees from the war zone, who have lost all their possessions, adds to the danger of the situation.

Rumors are current that the Young Turks committee may start rioting with the object of overthrowing the government, but there have been no tangible proofs of such a plan. It is doubtful whether a rising would be directed against foreigners as much as native Christians, but the danger to foreigners is real. If the Turkish army suffers a complete defeat, the lives and property of thousands of foreigners, as well as native Christians, will be in imminent peril.

The presence of foreign warships is of the greatest importance and would be the surest guarantee of the security of foreign interests and public order. The government has made more severe the state of siege; strong patrols circulate through the streets and the police have received orders to use the utmost vigilance and repress disorders rigorously.

A brigade of infantry has been dispatched to Tchatalja with orders to prevent all fugitives, particularly soldiers, from proceeding to Constantinople, but it is questionable if the brigade under certain conditions can carry out such an order.

Definite news of the result of the great battle is expected hourly. According to a government official, Naxim Pasha's plan is to surround the Bulgarians, while Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha is working to the northwest of Viza. A column of 30,000 men will then be ordered to make a sortie from Adrianople to join hands with him and bar a Bulgarian retreat to the north. The Turkish army at Dedeagatch is to hem in the western flank of the Bulgarians, while the main Turkish force, occupying the line between Tchatalja and Serai, is expected to deliver the decisive blow against the enemy.

FEAR MASSACRES IN TURKEY

Italian Battleships to Give Refuge to Constantinople Christians.

Rome, Nov. 4.—Four Italian battleships, which have been stationed in the Aegean sea, have been ordered to be in readiness in an emergency to embark all Italians at Constantinople and Catholic missionaries and nuns, irrespective of nationality and convey them to the island of Rhodes, which is destined to be a refuge for Europeans at the first sign of disorders.

It is believed that a massacre of the Christians at Constantinople will most surely take place if the Bulgarians enter the city.

Private telegrams received at the Vatican from the Turkish capital represent the situation there as most alarming, as it is also in the Holy Land, where outrages on Christians are feared.

Diplomats in Rome believe that the Bulgars will not occupy Constantinople, but will encamp outside the city until a peace agreement has been signed by Turkey.

Servian King at the Front.
Belgrade, Nov. 4.—King Peter of Servia ceremoniously entered Uskub on Saturday. He was accompanied by Premier Pasich and numerous Servian officials. The king embraced his sons, who have been at the front, and the crowd cheered enthusiastically. Subsequently the king received the former Turkish mayor of Uskub and promised him that the Turks would not be molested under the new regime.

Not Superstitious, But—
"Yes, we are going to start on our European trip the first week in September, instead of the second."

"What's the reason?"
"Well, my husband's birthday comes on the 13th. He found by looking at a calendar that it would fall on Friday, and he'd rather not be on the ocean that day. He says he's not superstitious, but he'll be dodged-squid if he is going to tempt fate by plunging into a triple expansion hoodoo like that! Don't some men make you tired?"

Mr. Warren is held in Chicago as a witness in the murder of Miss Sophia Singer, a Baltimore heiress, who eloped with him and was to have married him. She was found in a Chicago boarding house bound, gagged and her skull crushed in. She had been robbed of valuable jewelry and money. Warren laid the blame on Charles Conway, a one-legged professional driver and circus clown, and his wife, in whose room the body was found. The Conways fled and were caught at Lima, O.

KIDNAPS CHILD IN FAMILY FEUD

Alien Girl Confesses Almost Murderous Crime.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 4.—County Detectives Sassano and Inskipt arrested Gazelle Stasco, aged ten years, and had her held for assault and battery.

It is charged that the girl kidnapped and buried alive Lucy Lusher, five years old, who was found unconscious in a trench after bloodhounds had tracked her to woods more than a mile from her home in Fifth avenue, Coraopolis.

The Lusher child disappeared from the front porch of her parents' home. A search of the village was made, but no trace of the child was found.

A feud has existed for months between the Lusher and Stasco families, and when a vain search of the town had been made Frank Lusher, brother of the missing girl, informed the police that some member of the Stasco family could probably tell what became of little Lucy. Members of the Stasco family were questioned, but nothing was learned from them.

The county detectives were called in and took with them two of the county's police dogs. The bounds went from the Lusher home to the Stasco home, and then to the woods more than a mile away. Here the Lusher child was found almost wholly covered with earth. On top of her were piled lumber and brush. It took the detectives more than five minutes to dig the child out.

When Gazelle Stasco was accused of burying Lucy she confessed, and said she did it because her family was determined to get revenge for some alleged wrong they had suffered at the hands of the Lusher family some months ago. The Lusher child is in a critical condition.

DEFICIT UNDER $3,000,000

Big Revenue Receipts Nearly Put the Treasury on Easy Street.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Large returns from customs duties and internal revenue taxes in October have decreased the deficit of the federal treasury for the current fiscal year to $2,755,000.

A year ago the deficit was $20,181,300. The total receipts for October reached $54,470,000, an increase of $8,416,000 over October, 1911. Ordinary disbursements for the month were $60,607,000, or $415,000 greater than October, 1911.

Customs receipts for the current fiscal year up to Nov. 1 amounted to $116,034,000, an increase of $14,600,000 over the corresponding period last year. Internal revenue receipts for the current year, amounting to $104,516,000, were $5,500,000 greater than the first four months of last year.

Sixteen Die in Steamer Wreck.
Montreal, Nov. 4.—During a storm the steamer Cecilia, which plied between Montreal and Valleyfield, sank at Isle Perrot, in Lake St. Louis, ten miles west of here. At least sixteen persons were drowned, including men, women and children. Only four passengers were saved, all men.

GOV. WILSON INJURED IN AUTO

Big Gash Cut in His Head When Thrown Against Top.

WAS DAZED BY IMPACT

Accident Occurred Early Sunday Morning, While He Was Hurrying to His Home in Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 4.—Governor Wilson was injured by being thrown violently against the top of the touring car of Abram L. Elkins, in which he was returning to Princeton after his speech at Red Bank on Saturday night.

One of the ribs of the top cut a gash nearly three inches long in the top of his head and he was temporarily dazed by the force of the impact, although not rendered unconscious.

After the wound had been dressed by Dr. J. G. Titus, of Hightstown, the governor continued his journey to Princeton. He was about again as usual on Sunday afternoon, and, except for the soreness in his head he seemed to be none the worse for his mishap.

The dressing of the wound had necessitated the shaving of a circular patch about four inches in diameter on the governor's head. This led him to remark that the principal result of the accident had apparently been to make him prematurely bald.

It was late Saturday night when the governor finally broke away from the reception accorded him by the voters of Monmouth county, and he interposed no objection when the driver of the Elkins car, in which he was riding with Captain William MacDonald, hit up a high speed in order to make the journey as brief a one as possible.

Things went smoothly enough until the car was a short distance outside of Hightstown. Here there was a mound in the road, which had been caused by an excavation across which a telephone pole cast a slight shadow which led the driver to think there was no break in the road. The car was running at high speed when it bumped into the obstruction diagonally.

Without an instant's warning the governor and Captain MacDonald were violently jolted from their seats and thrown against the top of the car. The governor's injury was rendered more serious than it would otherwise have been by the fact of his head striking one of the ribs. His injury was on the left side of the top of his head, and he fell back on his seat, dazed by the shock.

MacDonald suffered from a wrenched neck and a bruised head, but was not sufficiently hurt to incapacitate him.

The driver succeeded in retaining control of the car, and as soon as a hasty investigation had been made of the governor's condition it was decided to make for the home of the nearest physician. Dr. Titus was routed out of bed, and a preliminary examination of the governor's wound convinced him that it would not be necessary to resort to stitching. He first shaved off a fair sized patch of hair and then with collodion and plaster drew the wound together and discharged his patient.

The remainder of the trip to Princeton, a distance of about twelve miles, was made at a more leisurely pace. The governor retired as soon as he had assured the members of his family that he had not been seriously hurt.

The governor asked the newspaper men not to let exaggerated reports of his injuries get abroad, and it was to them that he laughingly spoke of premature baldness as the principal result of the incident. He said that he felt fully restored from the effects of the shaking up and anticipated no serious consequences whatever. He will, however, wear a big patch of plaster on his head for some time to come.

General R. M. O'Reilly Dies in Capital.
Washington, Nov. 4.—Major General Robert Maitland O'Reilly, former surgeon general of the United States army, personal physician and intimate friend of President Cleveland, died here of uraemic poisoning. General O'Reilly, who had been ill for some time, was born in Philadelphia in 1845 and participated in many of the stirring events of the nation's military history in the last half century. He was in the Civil War as a medical cadet and saw hard service in the Indian campaigns.

Four Dead in London Fire.
London, Nov. 4.—The Barker company's department store at Kensington was partly destroyed by fire. Several waitresses who were sleeping on the premises were killed or injured. Four are known to be dead, and it is feared that other bodies will be found. There are a dozen injured girls in the hospital.

GERMAN TYPE OF OIL ENGINE

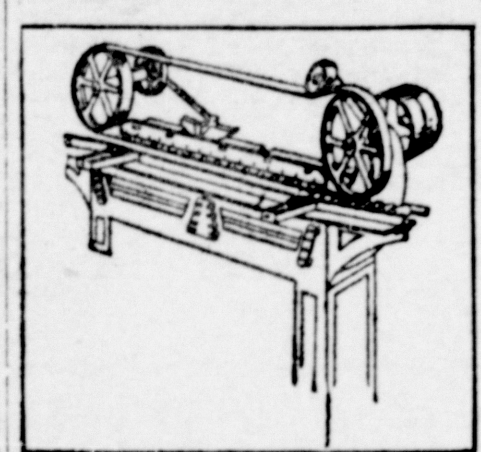

Built to Run With Liquid Tar as Fuel—Test Successful and Larger Ones Being Built.

A new German type of oil engine is built to run with liquid tar as fuel. One of the large gas companies had the engine designed in order to see whether such tar coming from coal tar distillation could not be used to operate an engine. The present engine is built for 100-horse power and was tested by coupling with a dynamo. Starting and heating up in the first place was done by means of paraffin oil. The engine was run on a 66-hour endurance test, carrying a two-thirds load, and after the trial it was found that the valves and the other parts were very clean and there was no deposit such as might be feared inside the engine. A very regular running was also one of the good points observed. Following this successful test, there are to be built engines of much larger size, which are to give 600-horse power. It is found that the full value of the tar comes not far below that of paraffin oil for the same weight.

SOLDERS ENDS ON TIN CANS

Machine Invented in Australia Will Manipulate Row of Cans in Very Short Time.

All the way from Australia comes this machine for soldering the ends on tin cans, but it is worth the journey. With it a row of cans can have the ends affixed in a very short time and fixed right. The machine has a channel along which a series of cans are continuously rolled, a weighted belt feeding them into the channel and keeping them from slipping or rolling out of place. A soldering apparatus with an extended lip is set alongside this channel and as the cans pass by the hot solder flows from this lip over their revolving edges and makes the ends fast. In addition to the actual work of soldering this machine spaces each can as the latter is fed to it and compresses each can into exactly the same size as its neighbors.

THE GIRL WHO WON A MATRIMONIAL PRIZE

"You can never tell," said the old lady who was visiting from the small town. "About girls, that is. Take Rosina Murr, for example. For one thing, she was prettier than that Miss McElroy you were all raving about last night so madly."

"Impossible!" said the chorus. "There couldn't be any one prettier than Kate McElroy! Why, she's a perfect, natural blonde!"

"Well, Rosina was ten times more natural!" declared the old lady firmly. "She was the kind that looks as though she had been made out of roses and cream and peaches. And she had heaps of hair that was so canary yellow that all her life her little brother had to lick all the boys in town who said that their sisters said she touched it up and blondined it. It really was unfortunate hair, because it looked so gloriously impossible. She had the figure of an advertisement lady and a cheerful disposition and a father with money. In short, Rosina was calculated to drive every other woman to hopeless, voiceless rage because it just wasn't possible to equal her at all."

"It seemed that she had everything—every advantage as to material things as well as looks. No other girl had a bit of chance when Rosina Murr was around—but as she was a generous, good-natured girl, she worked hard trying to distribute her adors among the wall-flowers. The caty ones said that she did it only because she didn't want them herself, but I think Rosina ought to have the credit for going to all the trouble, anyhow. There wasn't a man in town she couldn't have married, if she had wanted to, so naturally she stayed single."

"Nearly all the other girls of her age got married eventually to the man who tired of waiting for Rosina to change her mind. She outgrew the fluffy stage, where all a girl demands of a man is that he be good looking and happen along at the time. She was witty, too, and it took a smart man to keep up with her. We decided it would not be any ordinary man that Rosina Murr would make up her mind to marry."

"The summer that Judge Wagner's brother came to recover from typhoid we thought she had met her fate. Mr. Wagner was tall and distinguished looking and a lawyer and had traveled abroad and just to look at him you knew he would be perfectly at home if the toastmaster called on him unexpectedly for a speech."

"Judge Wagner's brother took to Rosina immediately and seemed to think that she was the right medicine for a typhoid patient. Anyway, you rarely saw her when he wasn't along. And she seemed to enjoy it, too. I never saw her look prettier or laugh more or put herself out more to be charming than she did when with him."

"We had the wedding all planned and the girls who knew they'd surely be asked to act as bridesmaids had decided on the color of their gowns—and then Mr. Wagner went away rather abruptly and Rosina smiled on. One of the girls asked her if she didn't like him and Rosina said he was perfectly fine and she had so enjoyed her summer. She didn't seem to realize how mad and disappointed we all were with her."

"It was just the same when James Miller came to visit his sister for a week and stayed a month. He was something in stocks in Chicago and one of those dark, clever men who scare you, but he didn't scare Rosina. She sparkled at him and he became instantly a groveling worm. He was her slave and not only did he not care who knew it, but he wanted to shake in the public's face the chains that bound him."

"He had heaps of money and we thought how fine it would be for Rosina to be able to go in the best city society and have a limousine. She always did have beautiful clothes, but now no doubt she'd have whole ermine wraps and never wear the same dress twice. But Mr. Miller also departed abruptly—and Rosina smiled on."

"People scolded awfully about it. She was getting older each year and even her beauty would not last forever—and what on earth did the girl want? She had had chances that most girls never come within reaching distance of and each one she tossed overboard. We said she would end by picking out some one who was no account and that it would serve her right. There's the old proverb about going through the woods and picking up a crooked stick at last, and we harped on it strong. No doubt she would end her days over the washbasin and regretting that she hadn't acted sensibly when she had the chance. It always turns out that way."

"Well, what did she do finally?" asked one of the girls. "Marry the town drunkard or elope with a carpet beater agent who deserted her at the next town?"

The old lady smiled. "No," she said. "When she was 29 Rosina went away on a visit and met the man she married the next summer. He was just as good looking in his way as she was in hers, had a fortune of several millions and I forget which foreign country he is minister to now. So you see, as I said, you never can tell. The general rule fails sometimes!"

"Well, we are perfectly disappointed!" chorused her listeners. "She didn't deserve it!"

EASY TO RESTORE HAT

HOW WORK OF FRESHENING MAY BE ACCOMPLISHED.

Washing in Denatured Alcohol Will Do Wonders With the Faded Flowers the Hardest to Bring Back to Color.

The girl who does not want to spend another dollar on her hats can do a surprising amount of freshening. Let her remove the trimming and freshen the hat itself. A black hat is easy. It can be made to look like new by washing in denatured alcohol after dusting. The entire hat may be soaked in the alcohol and while still damp it is straightened where bent.

The woman who once a week wipes off black hats with alcohol and also uses it on ribbons will find her hats wear much longer.

Colored hats that have faded are seemingly hopeless, but a box of water-color paint, or some of the special dyes for straw hats, soon restores their beauty. Soiled white hats can be freshened by bread crumbs—a favorite method of cleaning with many milliners—and they are improved by coating thickly with magnesia, which is kept on over night. One woman uses the whiteners that she put on her shoes.

Sunburnt hats are hard to freshen. If good, they should be sent to a bleacher; if not worth that, try bleaching them at home with oxalic acid, a teaspoonful to a pint of water.

Scrub the straw well, then rinse at once with hot water, followed by cold. Wipe dry and hang in the sun. While still damp, press with a hot iron on the wrong side, with a thin cloth over the straw.

White feathers and the numerous aligrettes of the season may be made snowy by cleaning in a paste made of gasoline and white cornmeal, and rinsing with gasoline alone, or with more of the paste until it shows no soil. If the curl has come out, hold it over the kitchen range or curl the flues, a few at a time, with the back of a heated silver knife.

Ribbons may be washed in alcohol and pressed under heavy paper or a thick cloth while still slightly damp.

Faded flowers are almost hopeless, but may be freshened by coloring with powdered rouge, rubbing off the edges for shaded effects.

Steel buckles can be soaked in coal oil for six or eight hours, then polished with fine emery. Jet is brightened by rubbing in alcohol and polishing with tissue paper. Dull bronze and gilt trimmings are difficult, but may be somewhat freshened by good silver polish thinned with alcohol instead of water.

Lace that will wash should be first soaked in cold water, then put in a glass jar with lukewarm water and a tiny pinch of borax and well shaken. Rinse well in several hot waters, squeeze out most of the moisture and dry by covering a drawing board with a Turkish towel, to which the lace is pinned, each point in position. Dry in the sun.

Lace that will not wash may be cleaned with French chalk or magnesia.

Materials for Suits.

There has seldom been a year when such a variety of materials has been employed for suits as this fall, says the Dry Goods Economist. In addition to staples, such as serges and chevots, the lines include wool velour, both plain and out stripes, zibelins, panne cloth, peau de sours, broadcloths, ratine, Bedford cord, fancy worsteds and mannish effects. Some extreme numbers made of matalasse, broadened charmeuse and velvet are also shown. Velvets, too, are had in a great variety, including novelties in corded effects, stripes and moire effects. A few suits of plush are also being made up for the openings.

Done in Colors.

In the dainty hand-embroidered linen Dutch collars the scalloped edges are in many cases worked in colors. A collar of white pique decorated with dots worked in white rose has a brown edge, while another pretty collar in fine white linen is worked in dark blue. These form a pretty finish at the neck line of the tailored blouse, and as they match the skirt of the coat suit, when the coat is taken off a pretty color scheme is revealed.

JUAN MARIO MENOCAL.

Elected President of Cuba by a Small Plurality.

ELECTION MAY CAUSE CUBAN WAR

Liberals in Fury Over Success of Gen. Menocal.

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 4.—Cuba faces the most poignant crisis in its history. Civil war may result from the elections.

While the government has not officially expressed its alarm, it is known that the war department is making hurried preparations to rush troops to troublesome sections of the island at a moment's notice.

The situation is being made more serious hourly by late returns, which sharply reduce the plurality of General Mario Menocal, the Conservative nominee for the presidency. The Liberals emphatically dispute Menocal's election. Some of the most radical of the Liberal leaders declare that if he occupies the presidential chair he will do so by force.

Rumors of plots to overthrow the government are rampant. The Conservatives admit that there is great cause for alarm.

Some idea of the temper of the Liberals was gained when thousands of them gathered in front of the palace of M. Sanguily, secretary of state, and started a demonstration.

KILLS AUTO BANDIT

Held Up Secretary of Chicago National League Baseball Club.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Rutherford B. Cook, secretary of the Chicago National League Baseball club, shot and instantly killed Edward Myers, one of two automobile bandits who tried to hold him up.

Cook was on his way home when an automobile drove up and one of the men alighted and confronted Cook with the demand that he hold up his hands.

Cook drew his revolver from his overcoat pocket and fired three times and the robber fell dead. The companion of the robber, who had remained in the machine, turned on full power and escaped.

An envelope containing an accident insurance policy made out to Edward Myers was found in the dead bandit's clothing.

STEPS TO RELIEVE CAR SHORTAGE

Railroads and Shippers Told to Find Remedy.

BIG LOSS TO BUSINESS

Interstate Commerce Commission Makes Suggestions and Points Out Suffering Which Would Follow a Famine.

Washington, Nov. 4.—So serious has the car shortage in this country become that the interstate commerce commissioners have published an appeal to the railroads and the shippers of the United States to cooperate in order to avoid serious injury to numerous industries.

The appeal is in part as follows: "From all parts of the country reports are brought to us indicating that there has already begun a car shortage which promises to be more serious in the immediate future. It would be difficult to estimate the financial loss to the industries and commerce of the country should such a condition obtain for any length of time."

"Without raw material or without coal, industries must close; without lumber, cement and structural steel, building would be stopped; without the distribution of the great body of our manufactures commerce will slacken and the people at large suffer serious embarrassment."

"Especially is there danger of distress arising out of an insufficient coal supply, such as arose in certain parts of our country in the winter of 1906-7. The commission is receiving daily advice from industries, state institutions, coal merchants and private individuals that unless relief is had immediately great suffering will ensue."

The appeal urgently requests that railroads return borrowed cars as soon as possible. The commission makes the following suggestions:

"That a higher per diem rate shall be made to apply for the use of the cars as between the carriers."

"That an inspection service be at once instituted which shall report to this commission violation of the rules existing which are intended to insure the return of equipment to the home line."

"That operating officials be instructed to make fuller use of locomotives and cars by increasing the speed of freight trains. An average movement of less than twenty-five miles per car per day is not adequate to the need of times such as these. An increased speed of movement is tantamount to an increase of equipment."

KILLED BY HIS FRIEND

Prominent Philadelphians Figure in Gunning Accident.

Cresco, Pa., Nov. 4.—Alvin Seitz, twenty-five years old, son of Samuel Seitz, trunk manufacturer, of 2021 Park avenue, Philadelphia, was accidentally shot and instantly killed on the hunting preserve of the Brigh Creek Park association, near here.

With his twenty-two-year-old wife a sister and a younger brother, Mr. Seitz was a member of a hunting party formed by Charles H. Thompson, Jr. He and Joseph Murray, son of Dr. J. B. Murray, were together when Murray's shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was reloading it. The charge struck Mr. Seitz in the left lung and he fell lifeless.

When she learned of her husband's tragic death, Mrs. Seitz, who was a hunting lodge with the other members of the party, collapsed. She is in a serious condition from shock.

TWO MEN ASPHYXIATED

Open Gas Jet Showed the Light Had Been Blown Out.

Seranton, Pa., Nov. 4.—Michael Simon and Michael Chollate, both of Jessup, were found dead in a hore here.

An open gas jet with a strong flow of gas pouring from it indicated that the light had been blown out. They were each about twenty-five years old. The men entered the hotel at 1 o'clock in the morning and the clerk lighted the gas. When a maid tried to enter the room the door was locked and she detected the gas.

Bridegroom Gunning Victim.

Rising Sun, Md., Nov. 4.—Marble but a month to Miss Myrtle Wiggins of Peter's Creek, John Coulson, aged forty-two years, a prominent New Bridge farmer, was seriously injured while gunning. A gun in the hands of a companion was accidentally discharged and the shot, striking a rock rebounded and entered Coulson's arm and breast.

Savage Sheep Kills Woman.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 4.—Attacked while mauling a letter in a rural box by a sheep that had suddenly become vicious, Mrs. Robert Earl, of Jefferson county, Va., was so badly injured that she died without regaining consciousness.

Lititz, Pa., Nov. 4.—Some persons are still picking strawberries in Lancaster county. A few days ago John K. Carper picked more than a handful in his yard.

U. S. BALLOONISTS SAFE

Watts and Atherholt Cable They Have Landed in Pskov, Russia.

Kansas City, Nov. 4.—George M. Myers, president of the Kansas City Aero club, has received a cable dispatch from John Watts, pilot of the balloon Dusseldorf, one of the men in the international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett cup, which started from Stuttgart, Germany, on Oct. 27, stating that he had landed at Pskov, Russia, a short distance from St. Petersburg, and that both Watts and his aide, Arthur Atherholt, were well.

Much anxiety was felt in aeronautical circles as to the fate of the two Americans, for it was not known whether Watts was supplied with adequate maps, and it was argued that he and his companion were placed in a regrettable position if they were no better equipped than was the other American, John Berry, who started in the race with maps not even showing the position of the Baltic sea. This was criticized in Berlin as a display of utter recklessness.

The cable received by Mr. Myers read: "Both well and free, Watts."

Although a cipher had been agreed upon, the message was not in code.

Mr. Myers believes that Watts and his aide have been held prisoners by the Russian authorities.

BRIDEGROOM DEAD; START INQUIRY

Bride Finds Body on Return From Visit.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 4.—Mrs. Joseph Depskus, bride of a prominent contractor and builder of Minersville, who returned home from a visit to relatives at Hazleton, was astounded to find the body of her husband at the foot of the stairs.

There was every indication that the man had been dead for three days. Dr. B. C. Guldin, who was called, found marks on Depskus' neck to indicate that he had been hanged and the body afterward dropped down the stairs.

Upstairs a rope hanging to a rafter was found and an old dishpan was discovered, on which it was probable that Depskus stood before he met his fate. Whether the man hanged himself or whether it was the work of enemies has not been determined.

Depskus was a "free thinker" in religion, and there have been violent controversies in Minersville over these discussions, and only three months ago there was a murder growing out of them. Depskus was married only two months ago.

FINDS ALMOST SLEW HER

Attack on Old Man's Daughter Was a Frightful Crime.

Kennett Square, Pa., Nov. 4.—As the details of the breaking into the home of Alban Dilworth, the aged farmer, near Rosedale, on Halloween night, came to light, it proved to be one of the most horrible crimes.

Miss Erma Dilworth, who was beaten into unconsciousness, revived sufficiently to tell something of the affair. She says that late Thursday three masked men appeared at their home knocked at the door, and when she saw that they were masked she just thought nothing of it, as it was Halloween, but when they brushed past her and began beating her aged father, she was frightened and screamed.

The three then dragged her to the barn, where each assaulted her and beat her severely in the struggle. She wore a pair of glasses, and when the fiends struck her part of her glasses broke into her eyes. She is still in a serious condition.

The authorities are at work on the case, and it is thought the brutes were three young colored men in the neighborhood. Robbery was not the motive, as Mr. Dilworth is in very moderate circumstances.

One Dead in Cold Snap in Virginia.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 4.—Winter swooped down on northern Virginia. Ice formed in many places. Many apples are still on the trees, despite the efforts of hundreds of men to harvest the crop before cold weather. Albert Newlin, a teamster, numbed by the cold, fell under the wagon he was driving and was killed near here.

Not Afraid to Boost Wages.

FINE ARTS PALACE, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

THE Fine Arts Palace will be one of the most beautiful structures in its architecture as well as in its location at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The building, 600 feet in length from north to south, will be semicircular in form and will have as its central motive a low dome arising from a unique base. Forming the foreground will be a great lagoon surrounded on three sides by a sunken garden, which will be designed in romantic Italian architecture. Here will be assembled the notable paintings of history.

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are warned not to trespass on the premises of the undersigned with dog, gun or trap for the purpose of taking game in any manner; nor for fishing; or in any way injuring or destroying property. All persons violating the laws of the Commonwealth with regard to trespassing on lands of the undersigned will be dealt with under the provisions of the act of April 14, 1905.

The Kitchen Cabinet

WHAT if the bread is bitter in the inn, and thou unshod to meet the flint? At least it may be said, "Because the way is short, I thank thee, God."

—E. B. Browning.

COMPANY DISHES.

A nice luncheon dish, which provides a vegetable with the more substantial egg, is the following: Cover a platter with finely-chopped, hot, seasoned spinach, well cooked. Cook a cup and a half of tomatoes with two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Boil five minutes, add six eggs beaten slightly, salt and pepper to taste and pour into an omelet pan and cook until creamy. Pour over the spinach and garnish with toasted bread points browned in butter.

Cream cheese softened with cream, add a few tablespoonfuls of chopped green pepper, makes a change in serving cheese, or may be used as sandwich filling.

Salmon Souffle.—Take one can of salmon, flake and season with salt and lemon juice. Cook a half cup of bread crumbs in one-half cup of milk ten minutes, add to the salmon with the yolks of three eggs beaten until thick; cut and fold in the whites of three eggs beaten stiff. Bake in buttered molds set in water. Serve with Pimento Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three of flour and stir until well blended, then pour on gradually one cup of milk, a half cup of cream and half a cup of canned pimentos that have been forced through a sieve. Season with salt and pepper.

Place a thin slice of cream cheese on saltines, leaving room for the cheese to spread when heated. Press into the cheese several pecan meats and place in the oven. As soon as the cheese begins to run remove from the oven.

A delicious way of serving cabbage is to parboil it, then place in layers with white sauce in an Edam cheese shell and bake.

"Oh, no! We have a ladies' sewing circle."

IN MEMORIAM

Kathleen Warren.
One year has passed, our hearts still sore.

As time goes on we miss her more: Her gentle smile, her loving care. No one can fill her vacant place. You are not forgotten! Kathleen, Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. Friends may think thou art forgotten And our wounded hearts are healed, But they little know the sorrow That's within our hearts concealed. Cold and silent is her young heart, Pale her lips we loved to kiss, And upon her lovely features Lingers still the smile we miss By her parents.

THE WOMAN THAT CROSSED HIS PATH

By PAUL TRENT.

It was the third time that the two men had made the same seat on the embankment their resting place for the night.

"I'm wondering what it'll be like when the cold weather comes."

"Sufficient unto the day," Philbank laughed harshly.

It was weakness and not vice that had brought him to this state. In South Africa he had fought brilliantly, and returned to England with the brightest prospects. But a woman had crossed his path—a woman with the devil's beauty that had made him forget everything save his desire. Career had been sacrificed at her altar—money had been thrown away—and then she had coldly dismissed him. The descent had been rapid, and now for months he had been existing from hand to mouth—and for the last few days homeless and half-starved.

"I wish to God they'd give me another chance," the younger suddenly said.

Philbank looked at him suspiciously and seemed about to speak, then hesitated, and finally remained silent.

Could you make good—with an other chance?" he asked at last.

"I believe so."

"Then you shall have one. Wait a moment."

Philbank hailed a passing policeman.

"Officer, can you oblige me with a piece of paper and pencil?" he asked.

The constable put his hand in his pocket and produced the required articles. Philbank wrote rapidly, and handed back the pencil with thanks.

"Take this to the Savoy and ask for Colonel Strathmore. But I want your word that you won't say where you have seen me," Philbank said roughly to the other. "Good luck to you."

"Thanks, and—"

"Cut along."

Philbank watched him cross to the other side of the embankment.

"I believe I can do it—now," he muttered, and drew near the parapet. For a moment his muscles were taut and then his body relaxed.

"I haven't got the pluck," he said with a groan, and he despised himself the more for his cowardice.

He was about to turn away, when a shrill cry could be heard some thirty yards off, and a crowd quickly gathered, all eyes peering eagerly toward the river. He hurried along and asked what had happened.

"A woman has jumped over," some one said.

Philbank threw off his coat and dove toward a dark object which could just be seen. He swam strongly, but as he reached her she struggled fiercely to free herself from his grasp.

"Let me die."

"Don't be a fool!" he cried, and when she continued to fight he raised his fist and struck her sharply on the temple.

Then her struggles ceased and he commenced to tow her slowly toward the embankment. Her clothes became saturated and his burden the heavier, but still he struggled on. Bodily weakness laid at last and his strength wavered, until his arms barely moved.

"I'm done!" he gasped, and his senses were vanishing, when a dark body loomed over them and voices sounded in his ears.

When Philbank recovered consciousness he was lying in a bed with clean sheets, the touch of silk on his skin.

"Where am I?" he asked, feverishly. And kindly blue eyes looked down at him.

"Strathmore!" he gasped.

"You mustn't talk, old man. Go to sleep," was the gentle answer.

A couple of days later he was seated on the balcony, but now he was well dressed and his stomach was no longer empty. Beside him was Colonel Strathmore.

"You are sure you are strong enough to go to the inequest?" the colonel asked anxiously.

"Quite sure. And so the poor devil is dead. Well, she wanted to die."

An hour later Philbank entered the mortuary and his eyes rested on the face of the woman whose life he had struggled to save.

"Heaven!" he cried, and his voice was filled with horror. It was the woman who had ruined his life. He touched her hand and trembled at its chill. Her eyes—they were blue—were open, and on her forehead was a bruise. Slowly he bent his head, and the lips touched the discolored skin; the memory of fierce kisses overwhelmed him.

And then he went out to face the world.

Mice Aeronauts.

There is a young Hungarian in New York who has an ingenious turn of mind, mixed with humor. His lodging is on the seventh floor, which for some time had been infested with mice. He traps two, and sometimes three, a day. There is a flag-pole fixed just below his window in a nearly horizontal position.

Having fixed an improvised paper parachute to the tail of the mouse, he starts him off along the pole. The rodent invariably runs to the other end, then a sudden shake of the pole, and he is dislodged and slowly and gracefully descends to the street below, whence he scampers along the pavement, followed by his uncanny attachment to the bewilderment of the passers-by.

Revived.

There was a man in our town Who laid him down one day to die, But got "right up again when told Of a circus coming, by and by.

PRETTY AUTO BONNETS

NOW RECOGNIZED AS PART OF FEMININE EQUIPMENT.

New Models Shown Are in No Way inferior to Those of Previous Seasons—Good Examples of the Best Displayed.

The auto bonnet has made a new record of success during the past summer. It has come to be recognized as the proper thing and the essential thing for the autoist, and it has become a bewitchingly pretty affair. A great number of pretty new models are shown for fall, most of them made of taffeta over rice net foundations, and all of them finished with a veil which is a part of the design.

A good example is shown here. It is of light tobacco brown taffeta trimmed with lace and lace covered buttons. The crown is soft and plaited into a band about the face. The edge is a frill of plaited taffeta and the veil is arranged to be thrown over the face if needed. This model is becoming to almost every one and is made in all the staple colors.

Another model is not so soft for it is made with a round stiff crown. But the brim is made over rice-net and is therefore not rigid. Black taffeta laid in fine plaits covers the brim, and light blue taffeta is stretched over the crown. A large, square, chiffon veil in light blue is finished with a border of black taffeta ribbon. The veil is laid over the hat, falling on all sides. A narrow boxplaiting of taffeta ribbon is laid over the veil at the base of the crown, and sewed to place here. This confines the veil, which may be thrown back at will.

This bonnet is made in many color combinations, as pink and black, light green and black, white and black, and is very pretty in white and taupe and in solid colors.

LITTLE COATS WELL LIKED

Dainty Trifles, but Just Now They Form a Really Important Part of the Wardrobe.

The little coats of bright-colored chiffon worn with lace, lingerie or chiffon frocks, are still at the height of their popularity. They are not by any means easy to copy, and that fact has a lot to do with their remaining somewhat exclusive novelties. One of the most successful frocks seen lately was of pale sage-blue nylon, with a delightful little coat of chiffon taffetas—in blue of a slightly deeper tone. A narrow frill of silk edged the coat, which finished at the waist, at the sides and back.

The fronts were cut into long points and were crossed low down at the waist. Soft frills of shaded lace came down each side of the front of the coat and frills of the same lace decorated the elbow sleeves. There was a high Robespierre collar of black satin finished in front with crystal buttons, and touches of black also appeared on the sleeves and front of the coat. With this frock was worn a large picture hat of shaded lace, with a big aigrette of gauze roses in the front.

Another striking dress was of white lace, exquisite in its extreme simplicity, over which was worn a long sleeveless coat of bright yellow silk. The coat was very plainly made with no trimming but a very little edging of the silk arranged in close kiltings, but the whole effect was most strikingly original.

Fashion's Fancies

Persian embroideries, with brocade and a good deal of silver, will be used in evening models.

Fashion favors small ribbon ruffles and bows of plect edged ribbons for millinery purposes.

At the seaside a refer of ratine or loosely cut ivory tweed is desirable to throw on over light dresses.

White dresses for afternoon and evening are charming with bright green, red and amber trimmings.

The new Medici collars, with extended ruffs in the back, are likely to be warmly welcomed this fall.

In the finer gowns two-toned mirror velvet appears, usually a black stripe on blue, green, gold, purple or red.

Some of the new dresses are made of two-toned corduroy, combined with silk charmeuse or chiffon in plain

The New Blouses.

Some new blouses have directoire collars. One of white sponge has deep cuffs of pique with an under cuff of net and shadowy lace, and a long black silk tie; its price is $10.75. Another with directoire collar and white pique cuffs, but the waist made of crepe de chine, is $12.75. This one is finished with a Gainsborough jabot of shadow lace and trimmed with loops of blue silk and clusters of tucks.

Symptoms of Consumption

Yield to Vinol.
The medical profession does not believe that consumption is inherited, but a person may inherit a weakness or tendency to that disease.

A prominent citizen of Evansville Ind., writes: "I was ill for five months with a pulmonary trouble, and had the best of doctors I had hemorrhages and was in a very bad way. Through the advice of a friend I tried Vinol, and I feel that it saved my life. It is all you recommend it to be. I believe it is the greatest medicine on earth. I have advised others to try Vinol, and they have had the same results." (Name furnished on request.)

Vinol soothes and heals the inflamed surfaces and allays the cough. Vinol creates an appetite, strengthens the digestive organs and gives the patient strength to throw off incipient pulmonary diseases.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa. P. S. For any skin trouble try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

Nobody Spared

Kidney Troubles Attack Gettysburg Men and Women, Old and Young. Kidney ills seize young and old. Often come with little warning. Children suffer in their early years—

Can't control the kidney secretion. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women worry, can't do daily work.

Men have lame and aching backs.

If you have any form of kidney ills

You must reach the cause—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys—

Have brought relief to Gettysburg people.

Gettysburg testimony proves it. G. W. Bowers, carpenter, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have found that they do me more good than any other kidney remedy. One of the younger members of my family had weak kidneys and Doan's Kidney Pills cured her. I advise anyone who has kidney complaint to take this preparation."
